

THE BIBLE SAYS SO?

CONVERSATIONS WITH DAN McCLELLAN

Dr. Dan McClellan is a scholar of the Bible and religion who works to increase public access to these subjects through social media, online classes, and his “Data over Dogma” podcast, which has more than 25,000 subscribers. His publications include an open-access monograph entitled “YHWH’s Divine Images: A Cognitive Approach,” and the New York Times bestselling trade book, “The Bible Says So: What We Get Right (and Wrong) About Scripture’s Most Controversial Issues.”

Currently an honorary fellow at Birmingham University’s Cadbury Centre for the Public Understanding of Religion, he received his Ph.D. in theology and religion from the University of Exeter. He worked previously as a scripture translation supervisor for The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 2

A Conversation with Dan McClellan

7pm | Lambert Recital Hall

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 3

Chapel Service

1pm | Center for Campus Ministry

The Bible Says So? How We Leverage the Bible to Authorize our Own Dogmas

7pm | Lambert Recital Hall

FOR MORE INFORMATION
VISIT MARYVILLECOLLEGE.EDU/NEWS

LECTURES AND CHAPEL SERVICE ARE OPEN TO THE PUBLIC AT NO CHARGE

Held annually at the College since 1877, the Margaret M. Cummings Conversations on Faith, Learning, and Service, renamed in 2019 and formerly known as “February Meetings,” have offered Maryville College and the local community an opportunity to come together to consider questions of faith and responsible living in the world.